Wheat, Old Corn, and Maryland Tobacco,

PURCHASED BY

Oct 4 LAWRASON & FOWLE.

MR. Editor,

KNOWING that there is a number of the most worthless of society, who make it a business to spread evil reports respecting the solvency of banks in the different parts of the United States, for the purpose of depreciating and purchasing their paper. I feel it is my duty to give a list of the Banks of the District of Columbia, that it may be made known to all persons in every part of the Union, that the said Banks do pay specie for their notes, on demand, and that they are justly entitled to the highest credit and standing, and that they are opposed to a suspension of specie payments, and will be the last in the country that will agree to such a measure. This communication is made to prevent imposition, and to inform all persons who may have the paper of those banks, in any part of the Union, that they may hold it as so much specie. Persons emigrating and travelling north, south or west, would do well by taking the notes of those banks, as they will always find them equal to specie, and often to command a premium of 5 to 10 per cent, for remittances to Baltimore, Philadelphia & New-York. To my numerous acquaintances (trading men,) and the community, I pledge myself for the foregoing.

The following are the banks of this district that pay specie for their notes on demand, viz:

The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown,
Central Bank of Georgetown & Washington,
Union Bank of Georgetown.
Bank of Columbia,
Bank of the Metropolis,
Patriotic Bank of Washington,
Bank of Washington,
Bank of Alexandria,
Union Bank of Alexandria,
Farmers' Bank of Alexandria,
Bank of Potomac,
Branch Bank of the United States at Washington.

I hold myself responsible for the foregoing declaration to the public. Done at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, this 26th day of May, 1819.

Editors of newspapers throughout the United States, by giving the above a few insertions, will greatly benefit the community.

FEMALE LITERATURE.

The voice of Sidney is not raised in vain—
A sympathising muse resumes the strain,
"That female genius, female talents claim,
An equal right to culture and to fame;"
To share the praise of every mental grace,
That raises and adorns the human race.

O for an age of chivalry again,
To renovate the race of generous men!
Of men whose favorite and peculiar care
Was to protect and elevate the fair;
Their rights assert, their virtues, talents raise,
And crown their merit with appropriate praise.

In feudal times, tho' other virtues failed,
Respectful, tender deference prevailed
For woman's worth. Not as in Greece and Rome,
Was she degradingly confined at home;
But both in social bower and sumptuous ball
Was seen, admired, and reverenced by all.

From the fair hand of some distinguished dame,
Umpire of valor, arbitress of fame,
Each northern knight respectfully received
The prize his gallantry in arms achieved;
Of toil and danger the reward and crown,
Her smile was triumph, her applause renown.

Nor Fame's bright palm did she alone dispense
At galas, festivals and tournaments;
For feudal records prove, her talents, zeal,
In council oft, advanced her country's weal;
Her judgment, penetration and address,
Promoting public, social, private happiness.

Admired, esteemed, distinguished and carest,
Her proper station, woman then possest;
And had the light of classic letters shone,
Among the nations of the northern zone,
With taste, discernment, influence combined,
The zeal of woman had the world refined.

And are there not some noble spirits still,
That with the power, possess the generous will
To advocate the cause of woman's mind,
And raise it to the height by heaven design'd;
A height from which her virtue may dispense
The most auspicious and diffusive influence?

Such spirits are; and one bright period more,
Outshining all that ever shone before,
Shall shed its pleasing light and influence kind,
On every cloud and envious shade of mind;
Till mental gloom, expelled Virginia's shore,
Shall darken female intellect no more.

Such is the period which our hopes await,
The pleasant change our wishes advocate;
When female genius may display its powers
From lisping infancy's delightful hours,
To youth's developement, when nature kind
Unfold the charms and graces of the mind.

No more imprisoned, like fair Chinese feet,
To keep them down, diminutively neat,
The female mind, its fetters shall escape,
And beauteous rise into its natural shape:
Its opening talents man shall raptured view,
Acknowledge, prize—and profit by them too.

Enlightened taste with fond parental care
Shall then illustrate the domestic sphere;
Maternal love shall make man's infant powers,
As genial spring awakes the nascent flowers;
Youth's opening bud, maternal light illume,
Till intellect expand its highest, richest bloom.
ELLA.

REFLECTIONS IN THE COUNTRY.

"Thou crownest the year with goodness; and thy paths drop fatness; the pastures are clothed with flocks, and the vallies also are covered with corn; they shout for joy, they also sing."—Psalms.

On the opening of Spring, and through the succeeding Summer, all Creation animate and inanimate, seems to "shout out with an exceeding and great joy."—Man alone endowed as he is with an intelligence "only second to the angels of Heaven" appear either to neglect or forget the offerings of thanksgiving for the rising fruits of the earth, and the multitude of blessings which a Beneficent Providence has provided for him. In pursuits of Agriculture there are innumerable evidences of mercy and kindness. Every plant that starts from the earth; every bud that sheds its blossom; every ripening fruit as it drops from its parent stem—nay the "humble acorn" itself preaches, "with most miraculous organs" the power and goodness of an unseen Divinity. "Hang up your philosophy," if it cannot reach this stage of conviction.

How do the feathered Creation chaunt the praises of their brief existence? What a lesson do the birds of the field furnish those who have rational and immortal souls! At the approach of the glorious sun, which diffuses heat and light to the animal and vegetable world, all nature seems to join in a universal concert of joy and thanksgiving. Well may the Poet exclaim:—

"The beasts that under warm hedges slept
And weather'd out the cold bleak night are up,
And looking tow'rds their neighboring pastures, raise
Their voice and bid their fellow brutes good morrow.
The cheerful birds too, on the tops of trees
Assemble all in choirs, and with their notes
Salute and welcome up the rising sun."

There certainly is nothing more charmingly impressive than the scenery and music of a Summer's morning in the country. The glorious Sun, even before his arrival, is known by his beaming harbingers. The "lowing herds," the chirping birds, and all creation salute and welcome the rising sun for bringing light to a benighted world—this language of nature is most eloquent:—It says to the sluggard "awake thou sleeper!"

From reflections like these the most important and salutary duties may be derived or are enjoined.—If the beasts of the field, the birds of the air—nay, the shooting germ or seed from the earth proclaim the presence and influence of an all-governing God, what ought man to do? Alas, in too many instances he is ungrateful and presumptuous! He partakes daily of the munificent provisions of the God of Nature:—He often abuses his gifts; and in the eventime, sinks into senseless slumbers unmindful and thankless for the benefits of the day. Not satisfied with the protection of the past night, and disregarding the Supreme Power who watched him during the "shadow of darkness," he rises up with impious confidence in the existence of another day.—But a day, an hour, a moment may break asunder the thread of his being, so attenuated is the cord of life!

Let every one then, with earnest and sincere devotion, address the God of his existence, morning and evening, for his multifold blessings. In particular, should families in the country, who are out of the reach of Parochial observancies, establish and strictly adhere to family worship. Let their "little ones," and their "whole household" know that there is a God; and that that God whom they worship is alone "able to work out their salvation." Let parents point out to their children the glowing uprise of the sun, and his mild descent. Let their young minds also be imbued with a knowledge of the milder beauties and usefulness of the "silver moon;" and above all let it be instilled into their hearts and impressed on their understandings "that all these wonderful things are the works of an Almighty God."

From the Vermont Intelligencer.

A VISION.

I passed the evening in reading and contemplation, and, retiring to rest the leaden hand of Morpheus soon steeped my senses in forgetfulness, and I seemed transported to those airy regions "where active fancy travels beyond sense and pictures things unseen." Methought I was wandering in a solitary place, when on a sudden, a venerable figure stood before me.

I gazed on him with the profoundest reverence, and thought I saw pourtrayed in his countenance the greatest wisdom I had ever known in man.

He was silent, yet by the eloquence of his actions, he seemed to impress upon me this lesson—"Man, know thyself!"

Beckoning me to follow, we walked on till we came to a large enclosure, which we entered, and I saw it had the appearance of an immense garden, divided into small allotments—and each allotment having an overseer or gardener, who cultivated such plants as his inclination led him to choose.

I was enchanted with the prospect—and as I looked on my guide with an enquiring eye, he thus addresed me.

"This extensive field so pleasing to the eye, is not the property of the numerous gardeners by whom you see it cultivated; but is leased for a certain period by the good governor of the country, who requires no other rent than a proper cultivation of the soil, and of the most valuable plants.

"To such he has given assurance, that when their term of trial is ended, he will give richer gardens, and they shall be the favorites at court. While those who spend their time idly, or cultivate weeds instead of flowers, shall be driven out to pine in famine, and toil for subsistence on the barren waste.

"Examine attentively the several parts" said he, "and mark the different courses pursued."

I looked around and saw some diligently employed in plucking up every noxious weed, pruning the useful plants, and enriching their allotments with whatever would adorn or be useful.

Others remained in sloth and idleness, suffered ranks weeds to choak & root out virtuous plants natural to the soil, or else cherishing poisonous flowers merely for show—thinking at the time of settlement, to impose empty show on the governor, for plants of real use. This, to me, seemed singular—as the governor in great kindness had given them a perfect rule, and a list of all the kinds of fruits which would be acceptable.

Others still, though they knew that their own was all that concerned them, seemed zealously employed in endeavoring to persuade others to take a better course; at the same time wholly neglecting their own which appeared in a much worse situation.

Some of the gardeners directed all their care to a few plants—others had a great variety.

The growth of one plant in particular, they all seemed assiduously striving to assist—but I thought the soil quite unfavorable to it, as it dwindled pale and sickly, and in no part of the garden was seen to flourish—this plant was called happiness. Sometimes, indeed, it grew, and even blossomed for fruit; but either by some poisonous weed infected, or the pestilential vapors of the atmosphere, it always blasted before it came to maturity. I perceived however, that it succeedd best where watered by benevolence, and where its roots entwined with those of the sweet herb of contentment. No plant in the garden made a prettier appearance than sincerity; but I observed that it was wanting in some of the allotments, and, those who cultivated it had to pay particular attention to it, lest the vines of dissimulation spring up and choak it.

With few exceptions all were striving to promote the growth of a plant called riches; but I found this was of no real use, unless used as a manure for the other plants. I was surprised to see the preference that was in some instances given to this plant, for, as I still looked, I saw one or two plucking up a certain herb called honesty, to make room for its expansion On seeing my surprise, my guide assured me that these persons were in the depth of folly; for, said he, the latter was of far greater value than the former, and besides, honesty, instead of hindering the growth, will by loosening the earth around its roots, cause a more luxuriant growth.

He then directed my attention to a plant of most exquisite tint, which, he said, grew spontaneously, where the rash hand of the gardener was not employed to prevent it. He further said that where it flourished it served as a useful monitor to direct and spur them on to duty—the name of this curious plant was conscience; and I could not help wondering why it was not universally cherished, but I learned that it impeded the growth of some other noxious weeds, such as drunkenness, gaming, &c. and where the proprietors were bent on cherishing these, though they were sensible they would be injurious to them, yet to promote their growth they would break down this balmy herb of conscience.

When I had learned the condition on which these gardeners worked, I could not help expressing my surprise to my conductor. Why, said I, since the term of trial is so short, and since so rich a reward is offered for well doing, why do they not devote their whole attention to preparation for the grand review, or why are so many found trampling down the most delightful flowers, just blossoming fruit, merely to make for themselves beds of sloth?

My guide turned a sorrowing eye on me, and thus addressed me—"Learn from what you now see, the important duty you are called upon to perform. This is the garden of the human heart, and you yourself are among the gardeners! Instead of commenting on the mode pursued by others, look diligently to your own allotment—and be prepared to render an account to the Judge of all the earth."

I awoke from my slumbers—my guide was missing, the rich fields had vanished, and the dark shades of night filled my apartment.
OMRI.

Extract of a letter received by a commercial house of the first respectability in Baltimore, and politely communicated for the Telegraph, dated Bremen, March 26, 1819.

DEAR SIRS,

I avail myself of this opportunity, giving you some information respecting our market.

The extreme dull spell in our business since four to five months past, of the same obstinacy hardly ever experienced before, and felt in common by almost every seaport in Europe, still continues. Since a month and better the navigation up the rivers has re-opened—there is no obstacle in the way in this respect; but the extensive orders looked for, and confidently expected from the interior, do not as yet make their appearance. There is hardly any considerable stir in any article—in consequence, prices of most have been giving way gradually. There is not the least doubt but the interior is bare of supplies, and that they will have to come forward with their orders before long; but prices of divers articles, as for instance, tobacco, cotton, rice and coffee, having been rather high for peace times last year, and as we are now in the season when new supplies can be expected, the merchants in the interior hold back very much, to see first how prices will regulate.

Our present stock of Maryland tobacco consists in about 800 hhds. Every holder was with confidence expecting a revival in the demand for, and an improvement in the prices of this article by this time, and sales were in consequence delayed; but this wished for period has appeared without the desired improvement: orders are wanting; the demand is very slack; holders have begun to bring their respective parcels by degrees into the market, and prices, instead of improving, are lower than they were in September and Oct. last. The manufacturers have and are yet complaining of too high prices, by which, as they say, they cannot make out. The consumption of Maryland tobacco has consequently lessened very much, the effects of which are now felt; nor is the decline of prices of tobacco of this country's growth, as well as that of Kentucky tobacco and stems without its effects upon the former. According to my opinion and appearances, the importation of Maryland tobacco must be very limited this year, if present prices shall be maintained; nor indeed do I think it unlikely, that prices will yet give way a couple of grots, principally of the inferior kinds.

Of stems our stock consists yet in about 1200 hhds. They are likewise neglected. One of the principal holders has advertised a sale of about 500 hhds and 75 bales stems and 460 kegs chewing tobacco, for the 30th inst. As yet, for good sound Richmond stems 10b has been paid in small parcels: but I doubt whether the above 500 hhds. if they are to be sold, will realize 9½ b if even as much. About 9 b may, however, continue to be a sale price for stems.

Of Virginia tobacco our stock consists in about 200 hhds. It enjoys, likewise, little demand at present, the better qualities of fat James River are, however, scarce.

In consequence of the large stock of Kentucky tobacco in England, which, it appears must and will find its way at last to the continent, prices of this article have of late given way near 1 gt. p. lb. and parcels will not now average more than about 10 grots. Several hundred hhds. have already been purchased in London and Liverpool, for here at 4¼d to 4½d. which stands in at about 9 to 9¼ gts. including all charges. In consequence of these and other purchases, prices have advanced in London a ¼ to ½; but as at this improvement orders will no doubt be missing, I presume prices will again retrograde. Common but sound Kentucky has been sold at 9½ gts. and 9 3-8 gts. already. Should parcels to be got at 9 gts. that article would in my opinion deserve the attention of speculators. Our present stock may amount to about 900 hhds.

We have but very little of American cotton in the market, yet prices have given way on account of the low prices in England—I consider present prices very moderate and safe. East India descriptions have found speculators.

Of rice we have no new supplies as yet. That article is likewise this moment in limited request at my quotation, purchases at 5¾ and 6 dols. and even at 5 dols. will, according to all appearances, come to bad markets in Europe—below 9b. that article may not easily decline.

Coffee is languid and I fear present prices will not be maintained. Should St. Domingo, however, go down to 24 a 23 gts. it may be the extent of the decline.

Present prices of sugar are low and safe.

The Hope, capt Snow, has reached our river from Charleston, with a cargo of rice and cotton.

April 18, 1819.

Since my respects of the 26th ult. no favorable change in business has taken place the tobacco stems advertised for the 30th ult. were all sold, averaging 9 5-12d. there are now about 700 hhds. remaining in the market, for which holders ask 9¾ a 10d. 9½ has been offered. About 80 kegs chewing tobacco sold on the 30th ult at 14½ a 15 gts. and 17 a 17½ gts. But trivial sales of Maryland tobacco since my last. Parcels now average 18 a 21 gts. according to quality. Light sales of Kentucky tobacco averaged 9¼ a 9½ gts. New rice has been sold at 10d. sales having been effected at lower rates at Liverpool and Antwerp.

Good quality St. Domingo coffee was offered yesterday at 24 gts. South Sea whale oil has been sold at 25d.

Extract of a letter, received by a respectable commercial house in New-York, from their correspondent, dated "Havre, April 20.

"The motion for doing away the Tobacco monopoly has been rejected—so our present system will continue until 1826.—Shipments of that article must therefore continue dangerous in the extreme."

From the Canadian Courant.

CADIZ EXPEDITION.

The fate of the Cadiz expedition is not difficult to be foreseen. For a time it will turn the tide of success against the patriots, but must be eventually overwhelmed by the united energy of a population which, roused by the oppression of a despotic and superstitious government—encouraged by its present debility—and animated by the successful example of their republican neighbors—has determined to be free.—Discipline will in vain be opposed to the impetuous onset of enthusiasm, and military skill to local knowledge. The royal troops, enervated by the inactivity of a long voyage, and unprepared for a climate dissimilar to their own, will wage an unequal contest with hardy peasants, whose sinews have been braced by constant exercise, and their constitutions, by a continued residence, adapted to atmospherical peculiarity. Their reinforcements, sent from a distant country, and liable to capture during their passage across an immense ocean, will be insufficient to replace losses perpetually occasioned by partisan enterprize; while the hydra force of their swarming opponents will be as often renewed as curtailed. Their reduction will be also accelerated by desertion, a step to which the natural wealth of the country—the propensity to change inherent in the human mind—and the prospect of distinction (accessible to military talent, however obscure the possessor) hold out the most seducing invitation. In addition to this, their army, necessarily distributed through the towns yet in their possession, will be unable to spare a force competent to the purpose of general warfare, and to keep open communication with those tracts from whence it may draw its supplies; while the revolutions, divided into numerous detachments, and strong in cavalry, will intercept their convoys, hang upon their flanks, suddenly uniting assail their weakest points, and in spite of repulse renewing their attacks with musquito perseverance, keep them in a state of perpetual alarm. Thus will their army, raised and transported by the last effort of the mother country, be diminished, disheartened, and finally destroyed; or blockaded in the few maratime towns which they may then retain, be captured in detail.

The Spanish fleet will in vain pursue vessels of a lighter construction, and commanded by abler officers than their own. Its crews, long disused to naval rencounters, will feel no inclination to engage swarms of foreign adventurers, who risque but their lives, rush to action with fearless avidity, and all the advantages of experience. Opposed (however the two governments may disavow it) by British and American sailors, commanded by an officer of high repute even in our own navy, and comparatively unacquainted with the navigation of those seas, their ships must eventually be the prey of wreck or capture.—Considering all this, and the ample resources of the revolutionists, either within themselves or derived from the contiguous republic,—shall we be deemed rash in predicting that in three years at farthest the independent flag shall triumphantly float over the South American territory.

Darien, May 31.

FROM EAST FLORIDA.

We have conversed with a respectable citizen of Darien, who left St. Augustine last Tuesday, and learn that the emotions occasioned by the cession of the province are fast wearing away among the people, excepting renegade Americans, and individuals in the service of Spain; and that a memorial is in preparation soliciting the president to appoint general Jackson as governor so soon as a transfer shall have been effected, and another beseeching the general to accept the appointment should it be offered him. Our informant went as far south in the peninsula as Moschetto and Indian rivers, and southwestwardly to Spring Garden, near Lake George. His reception among the Seminoles was civil and friendly, being always taken by the hand and offered victuals,* which, though none of the best, seemed to be abundant. The savages amounting to three or four hundred, were busily engaged in fishing, hunting, and planting corn in the old fields opened by the English before and during the revolutionary war. Many of the impetuous young warriors, he understood, had declared they would never come upon terms with the United States, but the greater portion of the nation, having learnt to bend to circumstances, and knowing the union of the province with this country would cut off all communication with foreigners, expressed the greatest desire to enter into a treaty with our government.—They were only deterred from sending a deputation for that purpose to some of the frontier posts, by the apprehension that the "crackers" (by which term they mean the provincialists living between the St. John's and St. Mary's as well as the frontier Georgians) would murder their deputies. Our informant communicated this intelligence to Maj. Bird, commanding Fort Alert, on the St. Mary's who requested him to assure them, that should any delegates reach his station, they would be protected while they remained, and furnished with an escort on their return; and at the same time wished him to advise them to get some respectable white person to accompany their ambassadors on the advance, a measure that would add much to their security. Our informant, however, finding that his own business would not allow him to convey the message in person, requested several Indian traders to state to the Indians the assurances of major Bird, which they no doubt did.

*Their corn being last year nearly all destroyed by our troops at Suwaney and elsewhere, they use a root, called coonty, as a substitute. It is usually about eighteen inches long and from three to four in diameter, and is indigenous in all the southern part of the peninsula. They beat it in a mortar until the fibrous part is separated from the farinaceous; when the latter is washed, dried and made into soup, which is said to be very nutritious, but insipid to the palate of a stranger. Some of the whites bake the farina into bread, and the negroes often subsist on it for months, bartering their corn for venison, bear flesh, &c. The Indians have as much game as they can consume.

Boston, June 5.

FROM CADIZ—DIRECT.

The schr. Native, captain Goodwin, arrived here yesterday in 41 days from Cadiz.

The U. S. sloop of war Hornet, George C. Reed, commander, arrived in Cadiz the 14th of April, in 18 days from Boston, with the hon. Mr. Forsyth, our minister, on board. By the requisitions at Cadiz, all vessels from the U. S. observe a quarantine of 8 days. But this was not required of the Hornet from motives of respect for Mr. Forsyth, and the general appearance of health among the crew. On the 15th Mr. Forsyth landed under a salute of 17 guns; yards manned, &c. On the 16th the Hornet saluted the town with 21 guns, which were returned. His excellency the governor, general O'Donnell, waited on Mr. Forsyth, and every attention and civility were shown him. Mr. F. was to leave Cadiz on the 20th for Madrid. Captain Goodwin has despatches for government.

Died,

On Monday night last, after a short but severe illness, in the 40th year of his age, Thomas Lawrason Esq. merchant of this town.

In the death of this amiable gentleman, society has lost a most valuable member, and his widow, his children, and his connections, an affectionate husband, a tender parent, and valuable friend. As a citizen, he stood pre-eminent among his fellow townsmen: unassuming in his manners, the gentleman in his deportment, and the christian in his actions. On Tuesday his remains were committed to the tomb, attended by his afflicted relatives, and a numerous procession of citizens, who testified by their tears, the bereavement they have sustained in the premature death of this good man.

On the morning of the 2nd inst. (suddenly) at his residence in Chester, Pa. Aaron Hewes, formerly of Alexandria, Va. in the 73d year of his age.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

100 Dollars Reward.

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

Curvature of the Spine.

DR. HAMILTON,

No. 47, North Gay street, Baltimore,

HAVING turned much of his attention during a long practice to the diseases of the Spine, begs leave to tender his services for the cure or relief of that afflicting malady. The approach of this disease is easily detected by an attentive observer. It makes its appearance generally in children between the second and sixth year; a protuberance of one or more of the small bones composing the spine becomes evident, loss of appetite, irregularity of the bowels, and emaciation soon follow, together with much disinclination to walk—and unless immediate aid is obtained, death or incurable decripitude through life are the certain consequences.

Doctor Hamilton has the satisfaction of knowing that his treatment of this disease, and application of the necessary apparatus, which is simplified at the same time, that it is materially improved, have received the unqualified approbation of many of the most eminent of his medical brethren in Baltimore. Spring corsets, upon a new principle, can be applied for the use of young ladies evincing a tendency to this disease, which, while they afford the most effectual support for either side, may be worn without observation. Satisfactory references might be given to parents whose children have profited by this improved mode of treatment, did not delicacy forbid the publication: they may be easily obtained if desired, by a private interview.
